

YOUNG WEINSTEIN HAT PLAYS
And incidentally Lawyer Hummel is Chilled to Account by the Mayor.

Little Lawyer Abe Hummel had a lively little bit with Mayor Hewitt yesterday morning when he went to the Mayor's office to get a permit to allow Albert Weinstein, the ten-year-old pianist, to play at Dockstader's Minstrels tonight. Mayor Hewitt was there in behalf of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The Mayor gave Mr. Hummel a permit that would allow the boy pianist to play five minutes every night and at the same time to give the Mayor a little of the money. Just after he granted the permit the Mayor suddenly exclaimed:

"See here, Mr. Hummel, why did you call me an old woman? You said that an old woman at the Mayor's office interfered with the Sunday musical performances at the Eden Theatre."

It was very many months ago that Capt. Williams arrested the proprietors of the Eden Theatre and a test case of the law and somebody was reported in the newspapers as having said that the old woman at the Mayor's office interfered with the Sunday musical performances at the Eden Theatre. I never made any such remark."

All the newspapers said you did, and the photographer's notes say so, too," persisted Mr. Hummel. "I don't care about the old woman, but your remark was not based on fact."

Well, certainly it did not say it, Mr. Hummel replied. "I refer you to the preceding issue of the New York Times. Nothing but the official stenographic notes would convince me that I made that remark. I'm bold enough to admit I said it if I did so."

"Mr. Hummel, the Mayor said you said that if that was so Mr. Hummel probably said to get his license from the Mayor. Mayor Hewitt took him into his chair and the color rushed into his face."

Do you mean to say, Mr. Hummel, that anybody can get anything here by misrepresentation?"

The lawyer replied that he didn't mean to say that, but that Mr. Hummel "strained a point" in the license, and he was not sure that he did not recollect over having called Mr. Hummel an old woman."

A moment later the Mayor, "you said positively that you never said so now you say you don't recollect saying so."

The dispute was settled on one day at least, by Mayor Hummel saying that he would be at the Mayor's office to-day at 11 o'clock to see the stenographic notes that the Mayor had taken away from him to allow him. He says he will take it all back if the notes show he called the Mayor anything but his Honor the Mayor.
